GOOD, BUT A LITTLE LATE.

There is no doubt that all the ministers of Charleston are determined enemies to all that degrades the morals of the southern people. They feel as keenly as the christian people of the north do the demoralizing effect of the McDow verdict. After the murder and during the trial not much was said by the minister in the way of a joint expression on the great subject. But public sentiment against the verdict has been growing, and the other day the Episcopal ministers held a meeting and unanimously adopted the following resolutions:

In view of the recent occurrences in our midst, we, the Ministerial Union, feel constrained to adopt the following resolutions:

First—That we proclaim an abhorrence of murder, adultery, and all deeds of violence which defile the land with blood and violate the laws of God and man, and deprecate all denunciations that seem to sanction them.

Second—Resolved, that we will endeavor to stimulate the public conscience by setting forth the divine law against the reckless shedding of human blood and the curse the law entails upon the community which refuses to punish the crime.

Third—Resolved, that we invoke the pulpit throughout the city and state to unite with us in putting down the deeds of violence which have so often disgraced our land and exposed us to the just rebuke of those who honor the commands, "Thou shalt not kill" and "Thou shalt not commit adultery."

There is something quite reassuring about the foregoing official document. The Episcopal ministry is to be congratulated for the courage it has shown in adopting the resolutions. It costs something even now for the clergymen to stand up for christian morals in the south. When Dr. Thompson, a Presbyterian minister, rebuked murder and adultery, Dr. McDow threatened him with violence for interfering with his business.

It seems from the reports that the preachers of Charleston about the only ones who are thorough enough to take a public stand against McDowism [of that city]. They have the well wishes of the christian and moral sentiment of the north.

Look at the other side. The Charleston News and Courier, the paper edited and owned by the murdered Dawson, comments thus on the trial—"The trial is ended, the verdict has been rendered, the case is closed. We shall not comment upon it, but shall from time to time publish the views of other newspapers, favorable and unfavorable, to the result of the trial—simply as a matter of record and of current interest."

It will be difficult to find a more shameful piece of moral cowardice than that. A paper afraid to denounce the cold-blooded murder of its own editor owner!!!

ELECTRICITY VS. THE ROPE.

William Kemmler, of New York, was tried and convicted for murder in the first degree, and sentenced to death. The session of the New York legislature held in 1888, abolished hanging, and substituted therefor electricity. Kemmler was the first murderer to receive a sentence under the new law. Under that law he was to be put to death upon some day in the week beginning June 24, by electricity in the manner prescribed by that act.

It was claimed that this law was enacted in the interest of humanity, that advancing civilization on the one hand and the progress of science on the other, demanded that there was a better way to take a criminal out of the world than by stretching his neck with a rope. But the condemned man, Kemmler, has a mortal dread of the subtle fluid. He has heard strange stories of horrible deaths caused by electricity, and of cases in which the fluid created pain only, the person recovering after days and weeks of intense suffering. Therefore Kemmler had a stay of execution granted, and an investigation is being conducted in behalf of the criminal. If he must die he wants to be hanged, and his counsel is trying to make it appear that the new method is not only very cruel, but not likely to produce instant death.

So far the testimony goes to show that there is little doubt if the electric apparatus, which has been secured for the killing of Kemmler, should send a thousand or twelve hundred volts into his body, that his death would be instantaneous, and of course, painless. In the investigation, the following instance was admitted as evidence:

The other day, for instance, a fireman named James Harney, in Pueblo, Colo., while he had on thick rubber boots, stepped on a Westinghouse wire and was killed instantly. We know that the dynamo had a pressure of 1,000 volts. If that would kill him instantly through the conducting rubber boot, the chances are that it would kill him when applied to his bare feet.

not a very big place compared with Chicago, but it has some vigorous policemen.

The World sent a skilled investigator to Arkansas to explore the condition of things there in connection with the assassination of John M. Clayton. He was instructed to find out the truth and to report it without bias, prejudice, or favor.

His report has been published in the World and it is one that should make every self-respecting citizen of Arkansas ashamed.

That report does not show who the murderers of Clayton are, but it does show that the people of the state in which the crime was committed have made themselves morally accessories after the fact.

These are unpleasant things to say, but they are true.—New York World.

If the democratic World keeps on it will soon be on the republican side of the fence so far as denouncing the present democratic methods are concerned. The World is not only vigorously opposing democratic murders in the south, but it is likewise opposing the present democratic scheme of letting the money power—the managers of monopolies and trusts, rule the democratic party as it did in the last campaign.

The Omaha Republican, Patrick Egan's paper, keeps up a running fire of mild sarcasms upon the Cronin murder, which it seems to consider a put-up sensation. "Now that the Sullivan-Kilrain fight is ended," says the Republican, "it is fair to presume that the Chicago police will resume their occupation of arresting Cronin suspects." Just how the Republican fell into the wrong way of dealing with the Cronin murder seems a mystery.

If the paper is under the influence of Patrick Egan, and Patrick Egan is in any wise in sympathy with the murder of Cronin, then Patrick Egan is not fit to represent the United States in Chili or anywhere else.

After the glorious fight at Richburg Sullivan made a speech to a crowd of sports at New Orleans in which he said: "I am 31 years of age, but have lived seventy years in that time and have disappointed more than any man in America to-day. But I have done." Sullivan can never atone for his past drunkenness, for his crimes, for his long brutal treatment of his wife; but if he only keeps his New Orleans promise, the people will try to forget the past.

The Civil Service Record editorially remarks that "Commissioner Roosevelt is certainly the right man in the right place." In making this statement the Record is certainly right also. But for one, however, the mugwump Record, and its democratic friends, are divided on that point. Any civil service that will displace a democrat, is not good civil service in the opinion of a democrat.

Secretary Davis, of the board of inquiry at Johnston, reports that a conservative estimate of the loss of property by the flood in the Canebrake valley places it at $8,655,714.

There would have been a good deal of fun for sixty million people if "Uncle Jerry" had been governor of Louisiana or Mississippi last Monday.

ON THE OTHER FOOT.

Why a Celestial Left the Service of His Employer.

It is every employer's duty to have some concern for the moral habits of his servants; but that is not his first duty, and it would not be altogether unfortunate if he were now and then reminded of the fact, even though it were done somewhat rudely. A wealthy man was in want of a male servant, and heard of a Chinaman, who was said to possess many desirable qualities. The Celestial was sent for accordingly.

"No, me no smoke?" asked the gentleman.
"You smoke?"
"No, me no drink?"
"You drink?"
"No, me no gambler?"
"Then you are just the man I want," was the prompt answer.

A few nights later the master of the house gave an elegant supper for a party of gentlemen. Wine flowed in rivers, betting ran high at cards, and cigar smoke, as dense as a London fog, shrouded everything in the rooms.

The Chinaman made the supper table a marvel of beauty, and waited to a charm. When the next morning came, however, the gentleman found no preparations for breakfast.

"Drunk, the scoundrel, I've no doubt!" he said, as he steered his way out to the rear quarters, expecting to encounter the prostrate body of the Chinaman. No, there in the kitchen sat the "Celestial" sober as a judge.

"Why haven't you got breakfast?"
"No, me no stay here," was the answer.
"Don't you pay high wages enough?"
"Yes, yes, you ask me I smoke, and I say I no smoke; I drink? and I say I no drink; I gambler? and I say I no gambler; and you smoke, drink and gambler, all three. I no stay here!"

Died of an Unknown Man's Bitch.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., July 11.—Two weeks ago two men became involved in a fight, during which William Fisher was bit on the thumb. Subsequently gangrene set in and Tuesday afternoon Fisher died. He attempted to make an automobile accident but before the name of his assailant passed his lips he ceased to breathe.

SULLIVAN IS RELEASED.

THE PUGILIST UNDER ARREST BUT A SHORT TIME.

He Strongly Regrets the Officers of the Law—Kilrain Feeling From a Sheriff—Baseball Scores.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 12.—When the north-bound Louisville & Nashville train pulled into this city at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning, a crowd of people surged around the cars to see John L. Sullivan, who was known to be on the train.

A rumor soon obtained circulation that a requisition was in the hands of the police, several of whom had boarded the car. Some discussion was heard, and finally a struggle was seen to take place in the car. An officer carrying handcuffs reached over, and seizing the pugilist's arm, pulled him out into the aisle. Sullivan resisted. Muldoon, who occupied the same seat, put his head out of the window and cried to the crowd: "Gentlemen, I demand American protection."

His patriotic wail was greeted with a variety of responses. Some cheered Sullivan and begged him to "knock the copper out," others cried "Honor for the Sullivan police." "Hit him with your club," etc. One youngster who was hanging on the outside of the car window ducked his head and informed the crowd that the "cops" had drawn their guns. After a brief struggle Sullivan was taken from the car and hustled into a carriage.

During the scuffle John drew back to knock down a policeman, when Chicago Clack thrust a pistol under the champion's nose and threatened to kill him if he struck. The officers next grabbed Charley Muldoon, of Brooklyn, Sullivan's backer, who resisted vigorously, but finally began to cry with pain. While all this was going on Muldoon sat quietly by and was undisturbed. Mike Carey, Sullivan's other second, and another of the party named Lynch, jumped off the train. Only Johnson and Sullivan were detained, though the others were also wanted.

The arrest was made on the authority of a telegram from Gov. Lowry of Mississippi to the Nashville chief of police. Sullivan, at once engaged lawyers and a writ of habeas corpus was applied for.

At 3 o'clock sharp Judge McAllister of the Circuit court made his appearance and proceedings were begun. Sullivan and Johnson, or Lynch, as he gave his name, appeared with their lawyers, W. H. Washington, W. C. Brian, A. J. Caldwell, and Thomas L. Dodd. Sullivan was very sore, but sat quietly, never moving except to open several telegrams from friends in New York and elsewhere offering aid. The city officers and the State of Mississippi were represented by Col. A. S. Colyar, Judge Abraham Demoss, and City Attorney Taylor.

Defendants' petition for writ of habeas corpus was read, stating that he had been arrested upon no process known to law and without the shadow of legal authority. He declared that he had committed no offense against the laws of Tennessee and was subject to no legal restraint. He had committed no felony in this or any other State. The answer to this petition recited that Chief of Police Clack had positive information that Sullivan had committed a crime in the State of Mississippi, and that he believed this crime was a penitentiary offense by the laws of Mississippi.

Counsel discussed at length and finally Judge McAllister rendered his decision. He was very emphatic in his opinion that to hold Sullivan longer would be a most arbitrary act on the part of the court; that the laws of Tennessee courts and by precedents of Gov. Taylor. He therefore ordered Sullivan's release.

There was an immense crowd present and the decision of the judge was greeted with great applause. Sullivan was made a hero of and the town was his until he left at 8 o'clock for the East.

KILRAIN DODGING THE OFFICERS

He Leaves Columbus, Ind., with the Sheriff in Pursuit.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 12.—Kilrain and his party unexpectedly appeared at Columbus, Ind., late Thursday afternoon. They came from St. Louis to Seymour over the Ohio & Mississippi road. At Seymour the news reached the party of Sullivan's arrest. The announcement disturbed Kilrain, who evidently feared that his arrest would soon follow. A conference was held among the party respecting to leave the Ohio & Mississippi train and come to Columbus, and if possible reach Cincinnati by another road. Once there they expressed the feeling that they would have been out of the hands of the law. When the party left the train they were immediately recognized and a crowd soon surrounded them. They entered a hack and were driven to the Bissell hotel, where Mitchell registered for all. He attempted to fool the people by giving fictitious names. They were shown to their rooms, where Kilrain proceeded to take a good nap. A crowd of by-standers gathered in the room and asked Kilrain for an interview.

He was stripped to the waist and bore evidence of a terrible punishment he had received. His body appeared badly swollen and was covered with blisters. A big spot on the right side was blood red and bloated. His arms were in terrible shape. He suffered terribly as Pony Moore assisted him to put on an undershirt. He could barely stand to have the collar buttoned and flinched perceptibly.

When asked as to what program they intended to follow he refused to talk. In about two hours from the time of their arrival a carriage drove up to the rear door of the hotel and the party were hurried into it and driven off at a high rate of speed. It is presumed they were bound for either Shelbyville or Edinburgh.

Sheriff Smith telegraphed Gov. Lowry of Mississippi, asking if he desired the arrest of the party. The following reply was received:

"I will pay $500 for the arrest of Kilrain and his party, Charles Mitchell and 'Pony' Moore, delivered to the Sheriff here. Answer if accepted."

"ROBERT LOWRY."

The Sheriff organized a posse and are on the trail of the pugilist. They were about one hour behind in the start. The Sheriff and his men are well prepared for a desperate resistance.

GOV. LOWRY'S PLANS.

He Will Prosecute All Parties Concerned in the Prize-Fight.

JACKSON, Miss., July 12.—After the arrest of John L. Sullivan and his party at Nashville it was thought by Gov. Lowry that they could be held until requisition papers and officers reached there. This hope vanished, however, when a telegram from Gov. Taylor was received saying that Sullivan had been released on trial by habeas corpus. Gov. Lowry then telegraphed to points beyond Nashville to arrest Sullivan, to which response he had been told.

The Kilrain party are also being pursued, with a chance of delivery to State officers. If the Kilrain party are not returned to the State of Mississippi, Gov. Lowry intends to prosecute all persons party to the offense, but gives no names at present, though it is believed that the referee of the fight and officers of the Queen & Crescent are among them. The latter afforded accommodations to and aided the parties to escape over their road.

Whipped by Jackson.

CHICAGO, July 12.—At Battery B. F.

Jackson, the colored prizefighter or amateur, connected the score standing Brown, a local heavy-weight pugilist, in six rounds. He did it in three. Small hand gloves were used. At the end of the third round Brown was badly cut in the face, and he staggered about the stage like a drunken man, the blood flowing freely from a cut on his left cheek. Brown was in fact a badly whipped man at the end of the first round, and his second was simply a brutal in forcing him to continue the fight through two more rounds of terrible punishment. At this stage Ed McAvoy, manager of Brown, protested. "This is too unequal a battle," said he, "and must not go any further. It would be too brutal." The crowd protested, but the slugging was stopped.

WANT IT MODIFIED.

Arguments on the Chicago Board of Trade Quotation Case.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Judges Tuley, Collins, and Horton heard the arguments pro and con this morning on the motion of the attorney for the board of trade for a modification of the injunction against the board in the matter of quotations. Judge Smith urged that the board be allowed to transmit its quotations to members every fifteen minutes, as adopted in resolutions presented at the board meeting yesterday. The attorneys for the bucket shops argued against this, making the point that it was only a scheme which would eventually result in freezing the public out of the quotations altogether. The judges reserved their decision.

The New Cruiser Baltimore.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 12.—The large steel Government cruiser Baltimore, the third constructed by Messrs. Cramp, and the most formidable of the new navy, started down the river this morning for a three days' trip to sea for the purpose of making a thorough test of the improved machinery and the sea-going qualities of the vessel. The present trial is a private one, to detect the defects, if any exist, in the machinery, so that they can be remedied in time for the official test, which will take place in a few weeks, under the supervision of the naval officers appointed by the Secretary of the Navy.

Burke's Lawyers at Work.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 12.—Lawrence Campbell says that an appeal will doubtless be taken next week in the Burke case. A number of local Irishmen who wanted to see Burke get fair play and every chance to secure his liberty had agreed to reimburse the lawyers for any outlay they would be subject to in making an appeal, and as this was all the lawyers wanted there is no doubt an appeal will be taken. The extradition papers were mailed to Ottawa Thursday and may be expected back in seven days. The detectives and witnesses will remain here until Burke is sent back.

A Day's Appointments.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The President has made these appointments: Collectors of Internal Revenue—William H. Gabriel, for the 15th district of Ohio; John Steckete, for the 4th district of Michigan.

Surveyors of Customs—John W. Cobbs, for the port of Paducah, Ky.; Robert Hancock, Jr., for the district of Pamlico, N. C.; John H. Bur, for the district of Key West, Fla.

When called as to what program they intended to follow he refused to talk. In about two hours from the time of their arrival a carriage drove up to the rear door of the hotel and the party were hurried into it and driven off at a high rate of speed. It is presumed they were bound for either Shelbyville or Edinburgh.

--A barb-wire fence stretched around the embankment of the court house park fountain would prevent the "dear little children" from being injured in their rollickings in the park. It would give the grass on the embankment a better chance to take root, and thus save the embankment from washing away.

--The Misses Lulu and Maud Wheeler, daughters of the Rev. Dr. L. N. Wheeler, formerly pastor of Court Street M. E. church, but now of Evansville, are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Bosworth. They will leave on the evening train for Beaver Dam, where they will spend some time visiting relatives.

--A young man who was not well posted on secret societies: He came in from the country to get some machine oil. "Does that mean that the building is 100 feet high?" said he. "Does what, mean," said a bystander. "Why that sign with a lamp inside." It was the I. O. O. F. It may have looked, like 100 feet to the youth, but an explanation followed, and he departed waiting for details.

--The indications are that the coming meeting of the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical association, at Portage, August 13-16, will be the largest ever held in the state. August 13 there will be sessions at 10 a. m. and 12 p. m. In the evening entertainment will be furnished by the traveling men. Wednesday sessions will be held at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., and in the evening a reception and ball will be tendered by the residents of Portage. Thursday will be devoted to an excursion to the Dells at Kilmour City.

--Two young men were seated on the railroad leading to the basement of a West Milwaukee street building last evening holding a pleasant conversation, when one of them tried to be funny, and a little friendly snuffing ensued. Both men by some means lost their balance and went headlong to the bottom of the stairway. The next time these gentlemen attempt sparring, they have declared their intention to do it on the square, and use "terra firma" for a footing instead of the uncertain foundation of a Milwaukee street stairway. The boys were more or less bruised, but they were not over anxious to explain the cause of their scratches to their friends this morning.

--A father and son in not a very remote part of the city got into a petty quarrel not long since which resulted in considerable of a "scrap." The family dog was on hand and undertook to interfere in a manner not entirely satisfactory. He returns on the train reaching the city at 9:30 p. m. This will give the public excellent express facilities to the north-east part of the state. This new run is opened on account of the fact that the Northern Pacific has lately secured control of all the express on the lines of the Wisconsin Central Railway, and this will effect a sharp competition between these two companies in the traffic from the north to Chicago. Heretofore the public has only been favored with one express train per day between these points, and this new enterprise will prove a great convenience.

--A party consisting of Charles Horn, C. J. Jones and others recently put in a day of profit and pleasure angling for whales at Delavan Lake, and according to these services are a great success and they are looked forward to by those at the different places visited with many pleasant anticipations.

--J. B. Green & Co. have just made and put in two new style screen doors in the front of Frank Back & Company's clothing store West Milwaukee street. The pattern of these doors is entirely new, and is decidedly the best thing out in the line of screen doors.
